Severe Weather Outlook Monday, March 28, 2022

Hazardous Weather

The risk of wildfires on Tuesday is great, so restrict activities that cause sparks or flames and take extra precautions to prevent fires. Winds will make containing fires difficult.

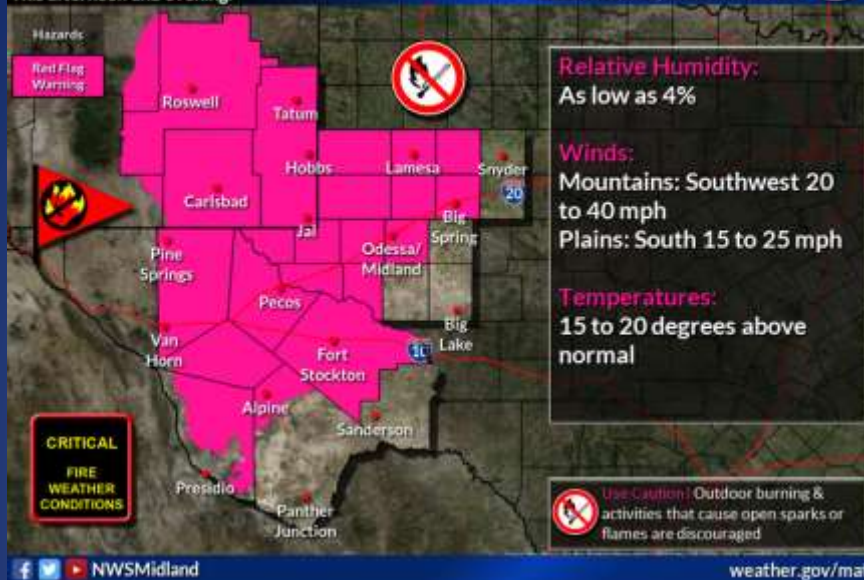

Monday will be very warm and dry with gusty southwest winds. High temperatures will climb to the upper 80s to mid 90s, and humidity will fall as low as 5 percent. Wind speeds from 15 to 25 mph with gusts to 35 mph are expected.

Hazardous Weather

Red Flag Warning

This afternoon and evening.

Weather Forecast Office
Midland/Odessa, TX
Issued March 28, 2022 5:04 AM CT

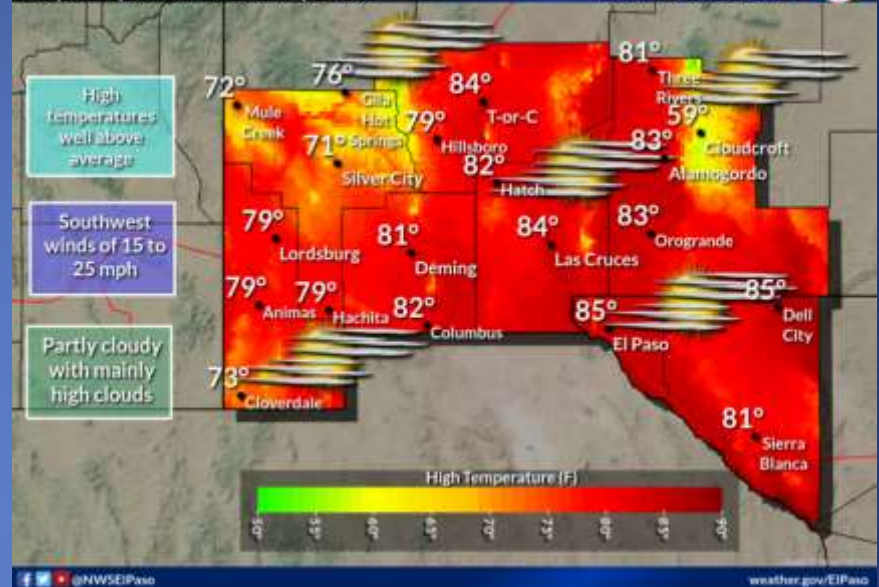

A Red Flag Warning is in effect for Southeast New Mexico and much of West Texas for Monday. Extremely dry conditions will lead to the rapid spread of wildfires! Please avoid burning of any kind.

Monday Afternoon High Temperatures

Breezy to windy with continued warm temperatures

Weather Forecast Office
El Paso, TX
Issued Mar 27, 2022 3:45 PM MDT

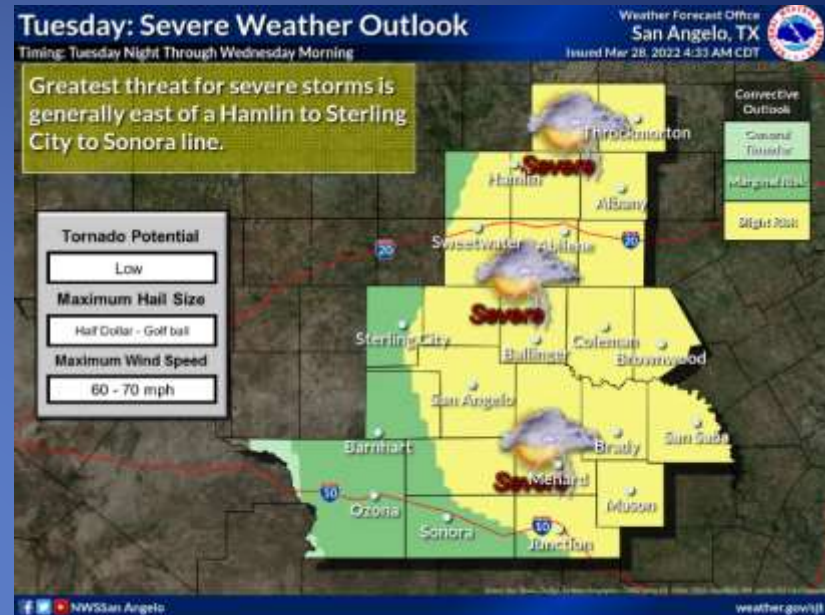

Our off and on high clouds will continue on Monday with high temperatures still running well above average. Winds will be breezy to windy from the southwest in the afternoon.

Hazardous Weather

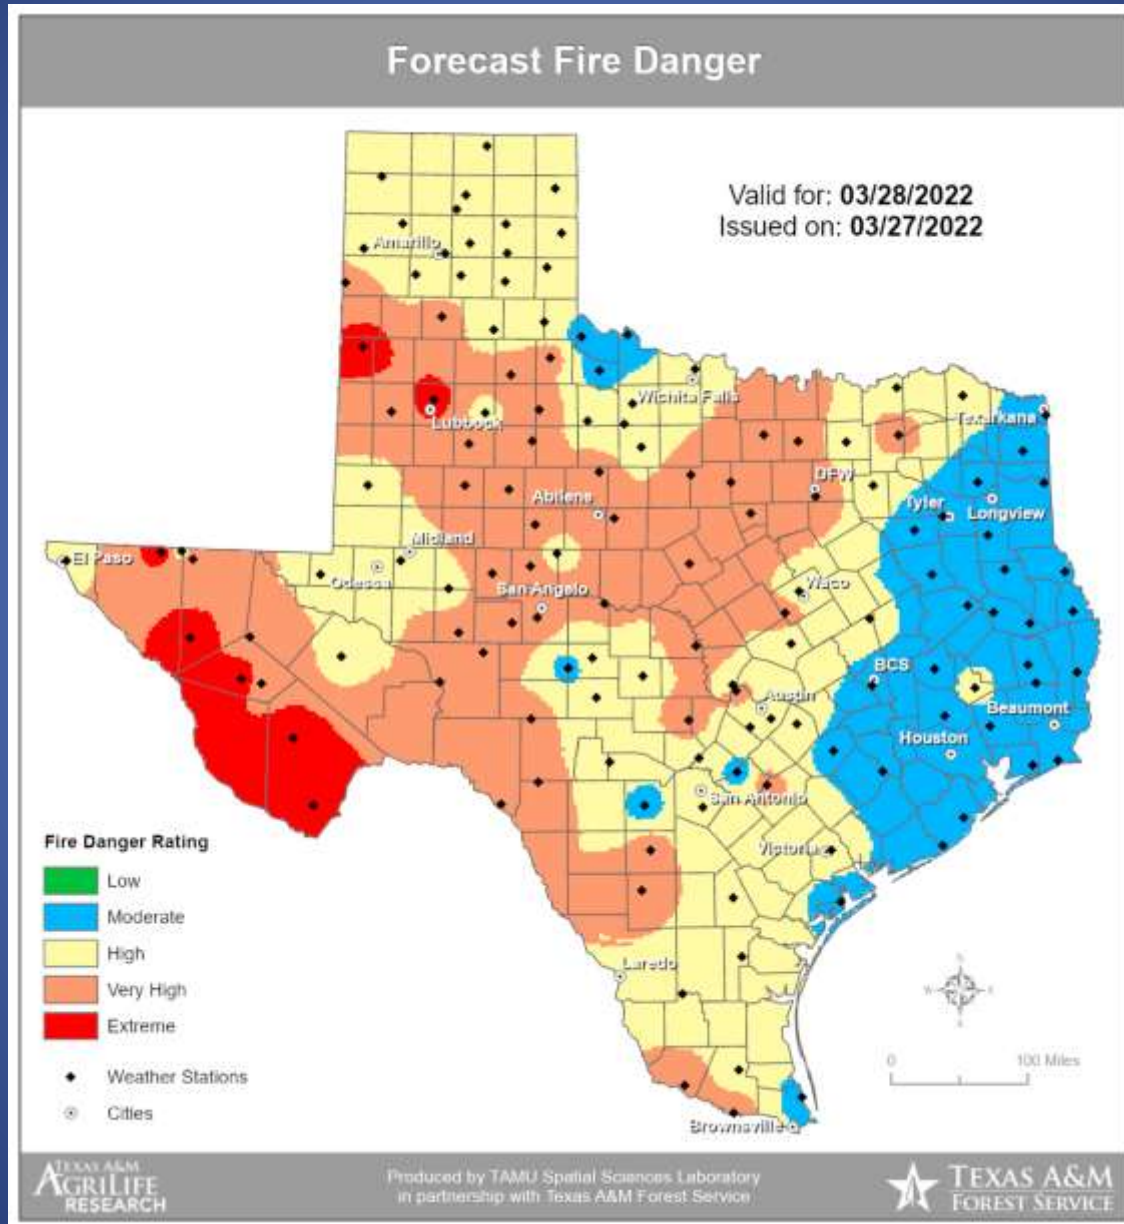

A few clouds this morning give way to a mostly sunny, breezy and warm day all of Deep South Texas as high pressure remains in control across the Gulf of Mexico and aloft over Texas. There remains an elevated risk of rapid growth of any fires with expected elevated winds and dry conditions. Outdoor burning should be avoided today. Mariners in small craft should exercise caution if heading out on the Laguna Madre or the offshore waters of the lower Texas coast later this afternoon.

A Pacific cold front tracks into West Central TX Tuesday night, bringing the potential for some showers and thunderstorms overnight Tuesday into Wednesday morning. The Storm Prediction Center has a good portion of the area in a slight risk for Severe Thunderstorms, where damaging winds and hail are possible, along with an isolated tornado.
